Broadcasting Studios Central High School

Fort Wayne, Indiana

Dear Readers:

We, the editors of the 1933 Caldron, step to the microphone, to extend to you the greetings of the class of 1933.

For a year we have been busy, with camera, paste, cardboard and typewriter preparing this record of the events of Central High School. We hope it will bring you pleasure now and in days far distant, when it recalls pleasant memories.

As the radio gives prominence to individuals and events, so this book chronicles events of school and students.

To pay tribute to all those who have helped us in preparing our "program" would be an arduous task, but especially do we acknowledge the cooperation of Mr. Fred H. Croninger, our principal; Miss Marie Ehle, in charge of attendance; Miss Erdean McCloud, czarina of the library; and Mr. Merle J. Abbett, superintendent of the Fort Wayne public schools.

As the class of 1933 signs off, it extends to the underclassmen its best wishes for carrying on the traditions and ideals of Central High School.

Announcers,

Ernestine Stumpf

Statement from

HARRY VON ZELL

"It gives me a feeling of deep and sincere pleasure to be included in the roster of radio broadcasters to whom the Caldron is devoting space in its pages, the more so because, although we moved from there when I was still quite young, I was born in Indiana—to be more specific, in Indianapolis.

"I believe that those others of us from the ranks of radio will concur with me in commending your interest in the art of broadcasting, as expressed by that attention devoted to it by the Caldron. Many of you may, before very long, be concerned with that art yourselves, as singers, actors, announcers, or directors, or in some of the many other vital jobs which lie behind the broadcasting scenes, such as engineers or technicians, continuity or script writers, program planners or producers, or in any of a large number of other interesting capacities connected with the many-sided radio art.

"Radio broadcasting is a fast-growing industry and in the years near at hand it will open golden opportunities for many young men and women. And I want to stress that word 'young', for this is one business in which youth is triumphant, and in which its originality and its zest and enthusiasms are valuable qualities. Itself, a young industry, it does not call for long years of plodding experience for those who would get to the top, and many of its best-known executives are young men and women who might be considered green youngsters in other fields. As a matter of fact, surveys have shown that the average age of executives and employees in the broadcasting field is lower than that in any other.

"With every good wish for the students of Central High School,

HARRY VON ZELL"
(Announcer for "The March of Time" and many other CBS programs)

"March of Time" program pictures the events that have happened during the passing of time in the world. It makes its listeners conscious of their part and place in the world.

Just as this program makes its audience conscious, thus the Caldron brings realization to its readers. The under-classmen realize, with each annual issue of the yearbook, that they have advanced one year further toward their goal and there is yet work to be done. The seniors realize that they are finished with their happy high school days, and have to depend more on their own resources. And thus each year each class draws nearer its goal, success in the chosen field.

Senior Class History

By

GEORGE KOEGEL

In 1929 the present seniors first entered Central. The class election was held, and Joe Tucker was chosen class president. The other officers were: Jacques Schwartz, vice- president; and Kate Yaple, secretary-treasurer. The social council was composed of Garnet Gerlock, Charles Porter, James Stephans, Jane Palmer, and Marion McKay. The officers chose Miss Florence Lucasse and Mr. John Reising as advisors.

The first social activity of the class was the Freshman Frolic, which was held for freshmen only. The outstanding feature of the party was a play presented by some of the outstanding members of the class.

The class of '33 moves forward and we find that Marion McKay has been chosen president. The office of vice-president was filled by Benjamin Falk, while Kate Yaple became secretary-treasurer. Those on the social council were Esther Sams, Ernestine Stumpf, Kenneth Baker, Charles Porter, and James Yarnelle. Miss Mary Zent and Mr. Robert Nulf became the advisors.

The "Hobo Hop" opened the class of '33's activities. Clever decorations made this an outstanding dance. This was followed by a spring dance.

The junior year brings around another class election. The president was Joe Tucker. Neva Williams was the vice-president. Kate Yaple was again chosen secretary-treasurer. The capable social council consisted of Ben Falk, George Koegel, "Chuck" Porter, Glyda Heckler, and Lorraine Miller. Miss Vera Pence and Mr. Robert Wyatt became the class advisors. The activities consisted of a matinee dance and a dance after the Warsaw game.

The Junior Prom was held April 23, in the boys' gym, with Carl Brenner's orchestra furnishing the music. Dorothy Hassan, a prominent junior, was crowned Prom Queen. Modernistic decorations of cellophane made this a colorful dance. Fantastic fish gave the gym the atmosphere of the deep sea.

1. Paul Kigar, vice-president; Bob Barnes, president

2. Kate Yaple, secretary-treasurer

3. Miss McKinnie Mr. Wyatt advisors

The class that entered Central in 1929 have now become "dignified' 'seniors. At the class election Robert Barnes was given the office of president. Paul Kigar was elected vice-president and Kate Yaple was elected secretary-treasurer for the fourth time. The social council consisted of Joe Tucker, George Koegel, Ed.lou Bailhe, Jean Beugnot, Ben Falk, Neva Williams and Ray Sanderson. Miss Eva McKinnie and Mr. Robert Wyatt were chosen advisors. A dance was held in the fall and in November the senior play, "Skidding", was presented. In February the seniors and the Caldron staff put on the annual Vaudeville. The senior's Commencement Ritual and impressive Commencement Dance bring to a close the activities of the class of 1933 at Central.

Interesting Senior Activities

Central's largest graduating class will receive diplomas at North Side High School June 15, when 234 seniors will complete their high school careers. The Rev. James W. Fifield, pastor of East Congregational Church of Grand Rapids, Michigan, will make the commencement address.

As a part of the graduation exercises is the Commencement Ritual, written by Mrs. Lane. The theme of this year's pageant is "The King's Design". In it are Central's best boy and best girl citizens, Joe Tucker and Neva Williams. The complete cast follows:

Junior Class History

By

RUTH ALICE REAM

The fall of 1930 ushered into Central a group of beginners who were destined to become a vital part of the school life. They were not daunted by the fact that they were freshmen, but they organized their class immediately and began their activities. The result of their class election was that Paul Lenz was named president; Nancy Kover, vice-president; and Marie Walda, secretary-treasurer. The social council was composed of Richard Miller, Peggy Weaver, Dorothea Eylenberg, Marjorie Hanley, Jane Latz, Babette Dessauer, and Jane Weil. A feature of the first year of this class was their socially and financially successful freshman party. The class was ably advised by Miss Florence Lucasse and Mr. Meredith Aldred.

The class then passed to that class in school known as sophomore. Their selection of officers proved again their capability of making wise choices. Nancy Kover was named president; George McKay, vice-president; and Paul Lenz, secretary-treasurer; Frank Janorschke, chairman; and Peggy Weaver, Jane Latz, Dorothy Gray, and Felix Zweig made up the social council. These class leaders, together with the advisors, Mr. Richardson and Miss Tonkel, led their class through another year that was marked with successes. The after-a-game dance, "The Sophomore Street", was unique in its silhouette decorations and excellent in its arrangements. In addition these sophomores also staged a tea dance which substantially increased the class funds.

By this time this class, that started as freshmen in 1930, had advanced academically and socially to the rank of juniors. Their organization was headed by Leland Maxwell, president; Frank Janorschke, vice-president; and George McKay, secretary-treasurer. The social council was composed of Bob Kern, Peggy Weaver, Dorothy Gray, Richard Miller, Paul Lenz.

The tea dance given in this year wrote another story of success on the records of the class of '34. Added to this the juniors gave a highly successful Junior Prom in May.

The number of this group who are prominent in their class and extra-curricular activities and who are outstanding members of the Honor Society cause us to believe that this junior class of 1932 and '33 will be as seniors a fit example and ideal for the freshmen of 1933 and '34.

Good morning, ladies and gentlemen.

Now that the class of '34 has spent three years in Central, its history has been somewhat determined. At least, some of the stars of this class have made themselves so apparent that, hesitant as we are to foretell the completed tale of the graduates of '34, we have picked from among them these stars who will now step to the microphone to tell you how they achieved their brilliance and fame.

First is that eminent and eloquent orator and debater, Jacob Ochstein. Mr. Ochstein, the "mike" is yours.

"I contribute my whole unparalleled success to my remarkable comprehension of the pedagogic element of our beloved institution. The philosophy of this element substantiates this contention: that the name of otiosity is anathema and that indolence is the essence of opprobrium. I declare these truths so that all may have—justice."

Thank you, Mr. Ochstein. Next we have that genial leader of ours, Leland Maxwell.

"Well, folks, I guess all you need to be a success in this school is a big smile, a pat on the back, and a friendly 'hello'."

That was President Maxwell. Now we hear Miss Babette Dessauer. Step to the microphone, please.

"Well-er-ah. All I've done to get where I am is to take five subjects and get A's in all of them. I also work in the Spotlight office and have taken part in several plays, besides being a member in five or six clubs. That's all."

The next person, ladies and gentlemen, is that ex-president of last year, Nancy Kover.

"All you've got to do is to just keep plugging along with a smiling face and your spirits high."

Thanks. Now we have that indomitable, untractable William Robbins, who already has a deathlike grasp on the "mike". Go ahead, Bill.

"Naturally, all one need do to gain renown is to maintain that a large environment does not crush individuality or submerge personality as one certain guy in this school believes. A conquering personality is an essential and necessary requisite for fame."

The next person on the list is Felix Zweig, but he has been ranting through this whole article, so he will now sign off. Good morning, ladies and gentlemen.

Sophomore Class History

By

BLAIR HATTERSLEY

The "Sophomore Derby", the "Big Ten" Tea Dance, and several class assemblies featured the activities of the class of '35.

Herman Deck, president of the class, was assisted by Alois Derry, vice-president, and James Kipfer, secretary-treasurer. The social council consisted of Robert McAleece, Betty Jane Merchant, Joe Deck, and Margie Bittler. Mr. John Reising and Miss Blanche Nielsen were the advisors.

The class of 1935 has become very prominent since entering the portals of Central. Many are in sports, Spotlight, Caldron, and dramatics. The sophomores led the honor roll once since entering.

When these classmen entered school they elected Tom Miller, president; Richard Pierce, vice-president; Joe Deck, secretary-treasurer. The social council was composed of Charlotte Uebelhoer, Helen Palmer, Ruth Murphy, and Joan Wolf.

Sophs Uphold Class Honor

By

MARY ALDRED

I settle myself more comfortably before the radio and turn the dial an eighth of an inch. No sound breaks the silence of the room. I switch the dial nervously, then wait impatiently. I am searching not for Ben Bernie, Kate Smith nor Amos'n Andy, but for the voice of Herman Deck, sophomore class president. A faint sound reaches my ears. Ah! He is speaking - - -

"Friends of the radio audience, lest any of my fellow sophomores have been overlooked among the hundreds of other students at Central, I shall try to acquaint you with the personalities of the outstanding members of the class of '35.

"The prime requisite of a good high school student is scholarship. The class does not lack in that respect. Proof of this statement lies in the large number of habitues of the honor roll—Catherine Yarnelle, Helen Jones and Tom Miller.

"Proceeding down the list of prominent sophs we come to those who aid in the task of making known the news of the week and year to the student body—members of the Spotlight and Caldron staffs. Of the former we find Jinny Coverdale of the Literary Corner, John Laymon, a mainstay of the circulation staff, Mary Aldred and Helen Palmer, star feature writers.

"But we must pass on to other things. There is the music department with Charlotte Uebelhoer, Pauline Gemmer and Winifred Mertz—not to mention the members of our blue and white clad band, John Broom and Charles Mackres.

"Athletics play a prominent part in school life, and Waneta Barter and Lyle Neat hold important parts in feminine and masculine athletics.

"And then there are always those, who, though not particularly active in extra-curricular activities, nevertheless brighten the halls of Central with their mere presence—sophomore contestants for the blond honors, Mary Ellen Derck and Jane Fredrickson; the girl with the nose for news, Betty Pollak; peppy little Snookie Bash and Margie Bittler; Joan Wolf, whose frog dissecting activities are well known to her fellow sophomores; our astute woman politician vice-president, Alois Derry. We, as sophomores, may claim among our number a rival to Bradley Kincaid, the ballad singing, guitar strumming Lee Woods. Some mention must certainly be made of Leo Wilder, who takes care of the collateral reading for the entire class.

"And so I might continue 'ad infinitum' listing those students who have already made names for themselves in their two years at Central. Be it sufficient to say that there are others. Ladies and Gentlemen, Herman Deck signing off."

Soph Sillibrities

1. Harry Rhodes, Kitten Yarnelle 2. Woodrow Hart 3. Virginia Coverdale, Mary Aldred 4. Tom Miller, Lizzie, Blair Hattersley 5. John Laymon in the gutter 6. "Snookie" Bash 7. Pauline Gemmer 8. Up and Coming Frosh

—And now, ladies and gentlemen of Radioland, I take great pleasure in introducing Miss Kathleen McKay, representative of the class of '36 of Central High School.

"Thank you, Mr. Announcer. This afternoon, friends, I am going to present to you some of the most prominent students of the freshman class in Central in order that you may appreciate the variety of talents exposed in a public high school. Probably the most outstanding organization in school today is the Honor Society. Cecelia Bolson and Helen Doswell belong to it, and several other freshmen are eligible.

"In the music department we find Marijane Woodward and Bob Smith. Bob has been active in the music department almost since his first day at Central. Marijane did her share in making the Harmony Hop a successful dance.

"There is an unusually large number of promising athletes in the class. Some of the most accomplished frosh are Morris Castle, John Charlton, James Dincoff, Chris Dixie, Fred Kabisch, Alex Krafewski, Jim McDonald, Dick Sawyer, Steve Sitko and Charles Stevens. Jack Schreck, a member of the Freshman Council, won the Senior Free Throw Tourney.

"Dorothy Masursky is already a very active member of the Vagabond Club, and is indeed an excellent representative for the Freshman Class in that organization.

"The Spotlight staff has found that there are freshmen who are capable and willing when it comes to editing a school newspaper. Ed Stumpf and Mabel Springer have already made the major staff, Bob Smith is working hard as a feature writer, and Ward Beers is a writer of the sports. There are innumerable freshman reporters who are trying to work their way upward.

"The Central Triangle Club, noted for its charity work, claims its share of freshman girls. Some of the most active are Mildred Hawkins, vice-president; Phyllis Farrel, Dorothy Fox and Vivian Rider.

"There is a tiny package of very powerful dynamite tied up in little Lena Kies. Then there is a girl who is very much taller whose name is Avinell Lipp. They are two of the girl athletes who stand out most prominently in my mind. One of the nicest things about girls' sports is that every size can be used in some phase of the work.

"It seems to me that I've forgotten a very important activity. I have it now! It's dramatics. So far only one girl in our class has really made a name for herself. She is Vivian Rider. You will remember her as the mummified Egyptian princess in one of the Christmas plays.

"Cecelia Bolson, who has been mentioned before, is a lovely toe dancer. If you saw the Senior-Caldron-Vodvil, you will know that what I say is true. Catherine Hite is very entertaining when she delivers a monologue. Virginia Vollmer is also a lovely dancer, although she has never displayed her talent before any of the student body. There are many, many others I could name if I had enough time, but I haven't. Good day, friends."

—Helen Doswell

Freshman Class History

By

EDWIN STUMPF

Hello folks:

Their history started about a year and a half ago, when two hundred boys and girls came from the different grade schools. Again last September around three hundred pupils entered Central's portals for the first time.

On the first Monday in October the class elected Bruce Hunt, president; Helen Doswell, vice-president; and Mildred Hawkins, secretary-treasurer. The social council elected were: Margie Nichols, Robert Weaver, Virginia Tucker, Jack Schreck, and Mary Martha Rabus.

Plans were then started for the Freshman Party which was held Thursday, February 16. A large crowd of the class of '36 turned out and the profit was turned over to the Caldron to pay for the space taken up by the freshman pictures. Punch and cookies were served by the mothers of some of the freshmen.

Many of the freshman girls were on the basketball, volleyball, and soccer teams. Also the C.T.C. and Spotlight claim girls of the class of '36. Two freshman boys, Steve Sitko and Fred Kabisch, made the reserve basketball squad the entire season. Many boys turned out for both football and basketball when the calls were issued. Freshman boys are also in the Torch Club and on the Spotlight staff. The honor roll at the end of the first semester had on it the following freshman names:

STATEMENT FROM GRACIE ALLEN

"Georgie says that the students of Central High School in Fort Wayne, Indiana, want a picture of me for the Caldron, but that maybe they only want it to scare the Indians away from the fort with it or that maybe the Indians want it to throw in the fire under the caldron, and I'm all mixed up about it. I never knew any Indians anyway, and I think it's awful silly of them to spend their time sitting around keeping a fire going under a caldron and throwing people's pictures in it, and somebody ought to stop them from scalping the poor people in the forts. There he goes again. George just said maybe we were both wrong because somebody from Indianapolis told us about it over the telephone, and maybe what they meant was that the Indiana police want the picture for their rogues' gallery. George is always being nice like that and saying flattering things, and everywhere people go they're so nice to us. Just like my uncle. Don't you think it was nice of the government to give him a nice home at Atlanta and let him play on the football team there and all? But he has to leave pretty soon. I suppose you can't expect good things to last forever, though. Like my brother disappearing. I suppose he'll turn up one of these days soon. Georgie says to tell you if you see anybody standing in a corner with a dunce cap on it's probably my brother and to get him a bigger dunce cap and be sure he stays in the corner. But I bet he says things like that to all the girls.

"Seriously though, it's a lot of fun being dumb on the radio, and Georgie and I really do think it's awfully nice of you to take such an interest in our silly business, and so does Guy Lombardo—and all the guys and the Lombardos in his band. With our best wishes.

GRACIE ALLEN"

Gracie Allen and George Burns are those two inimitable beings of the air who have given many listeners so much enjoyment and satisfaction. They satisfy. Thus with clubs and organizations. The participants in the various activities at Central derive from them great satisfaction and enjoyment, and an increment too.

Noteworthy Achievements in Drama

Unusual is the number of dramatic productions which Miss Marjorie Suter directed this year at Central High School. Included in performances were five one-act plays, a program dedicated to Sir Walter Scott, the Recognition Day program, and the Commencement Ritual, which is to come.

"Bargains in Cathay" and "The Thing" were first presented. The former dealt with the love affair of a salesgirl who worked in a book store. Dorothy Gray had the leading role, and opposite her played Frank Janorschke. The supporting cast included Jacob Ochstein, Josephine Woehr, Bobby Dessauer, Bill Robbins, and George Koegel. Outstanding acting on the parts of Joe Tucker and George Koegel made "The Thing" a well-remembered drama. Joe Tucker, as The Man, the man who committed murder and theft, performed as well as any professional. The Thing, finally named as Conscience, was portrayed to a degree of excellency by George Koegel.

At Christmas time Miss Suter had two plays ready. Pertaining to the guilty conscience of a man who had sinned by stealing money and symbolizing the torment of wrong doing, "Dust of the Road" was enacted for the student body. In this cast were George Koegel, the tramp; Max Callison, Peter Steele; Bobby Dessauer, Prudence Steele; and Joe Deck, the uncle. At the same performance a fantasy, "Theories and Thumbs," entertained the spectators. The theme of this play revolves about the Egyptian princess (Vivian Rider), a statue which comes to life in a museum. The scrubwoman (Betty Colling) is enamored by this statue about which Miss Marshall (Anna Rose Haffner) is writing. Although a kindly Irishwoman, Mrs. Donovan (Anita Scheumann) has procured for Annie Morrison a better position than that of scrubwoman, the latter prefers to remain near the princess. Harriet Fuelber and Helen Palmer represent two high school girls on a tour through the building.

The Sir Walter Scott Program was novel in the history of any of the Fort Wayne high schools. It was presented in honor of the centenary of this famous Scotch novelist. Various scenes from Scott's "Ivanhoe" were pictured. Dorothy Gray and Anita Scheumann portrayed Rowena and Rebecca, respectively. The role of Ivanhoe saw Joe Tucker as its interpreter. Charles Porter, as Gurth, and George Koegel, as Wamba, supplied the comedy element.

Last of the plays of this type given during the 1932-33 season was "The Three Lepers." As its name signifies, the tragedy relates the sorrows and heartaches of those people outcast through no fault of their own. Again unusual acting on the part of the players, Jim Curran, Frank Janorschke, and George Koegel made the performance a success.

Seniors on the Stage

"Skidding", the play presented by the seniors of the class of '33, was in every detail interesting to follow. More as professional players than amateurs, the cast dramatized the following story.

Marion Hardy (Edilou Bailhe) suddenly comes home from college where she has been studying, particularly, political science. With her she brings her fiancee, Wayne Trenton (Joe Tucker). Marion's father (Herbert Levy) is at this time trying to get re-elected as judge.

Marion's two married sisters, Myra and Estelle (Sara Bernstein and Esther Sams) each return home, because they are tired with married life. From here the story twists about with much sorrow, many tears, and likewise a host of laughs until the final kiss which seals the engagement of Marion and Wayne.

Andy, Marion's young brother (Charles Porter) provides many a laugh. Mrs. Hardy (Anita Scheumann) portrayed the role of an earnest, literal minded woman. The part of the old maid school teacher, Aunt Milly, to whom the children come for advice was taken by Georgianna Miller. Mr. Stubbins (Jim Wyatt) the political advisor of Judge Hardy, Mrs. Snodgrass (Betty Colling), the neighbor lady who burst in at the wrong time, and Grandpa (George Koegel) all added to the enjoyment of the play.

If success can be judged by the pecuniary profit, this years' seniors were most successful. A sum amounting to $125 was the profit recorded by the class advisors.

None of these plays could have been presented without an able stage crew. At the head of this important organization was Dick Millikan. Assisting him were Robert Butler, Brock Cleary, Paul Bundy, and Louis Juillard.

To give recognition to those students who have been outstanding in extra-curricular activities during the school year is the purpose of the annual Recognition Day program. At this time is presented for the benefit of the entire student body a play written by Mrs. Vera Lane, head of the English department of Central. The cast of characters will be as follows in the play "Studios":

The Master of the Studio (fine arts), Dalton Degitz; The Portrait Painter, Rhoda Lewerenz; Art Student (boy), Frank Janorschke; Art Student (girl), Georgianna Miller; The Cinderella Person, Elizabeth Colling; Editor and Columnist, Betty Edlavitch; The Doner, Herbert Levy; The Singer Across the Hall, Richard Millikan; Off Stage Voice and "violinist", Jacob Ochstein; The Dancers, Beatrice and Rosemary Clinton.

Pieces of the 1933 Jigsaw

"The Jig-Saw Review", in keeping with the craze of the times, was the title of the Senior-Caldron Vodvil. It was presented February 17, under the supervision of Miss Leah Austin, faculty advisor of the Caldron, and Miss Eva McKinnie and Mr. Robert Wyatt, senior class advisors. From the two performances the Caldron staff netted a profit of $110.

Quill and Scroll

Quill and Scroll, national honorary society for student journalists, was introduced into Central in 1929.

Membership into the society is open to all outstanding juniors and seniors rating in the upper third of their clubs, having done some distinctive work in some phase of journalism, and having been recommended by the faculty advisors.

At the beginning of this year, four members remained in the club, those having been elected while they were juniors. They were Ben Falk, Neva Williams, Ernestine Stumpf, and Betty Colling.

At a meeting held later in the semester it was decided to elect three more members in the organization. They were Pauline Springer, Jean Beugnot, and Betty Edlavitch. Rough and serious initiations were held for these members at a meeting held in October. Three new members were added to the roster in April; Rita Bolson, George McKay, and Babette Dessauer.

The officers are: president, Ernestine Stumpf, and secretary-treasurer, Ben Falk.

Introducing the Editors

Facing the serious catastrophe of the bank moratorium which kept the money of the year-book tied up, the editors of the Caldron kept on working, never despairing. Thanks to their untiring efforts and those of the faculty advisor, the Caldron was able to be published this year.

Since radio plays such an important part in our life today, and since all boys and girls have their favorite radio stars, this wonder of the world was used in the 1933 book. Fort Wayne is one of the cities whose radio station is part of the great network of the Columbia Broadcasting Company. With this in mind, the editors called upon CBS to assist them in the publishing of their year-book. The head of the Columbia Chain was very gracious in cooperating with the Caldron staff, and so to him goes part of the credit for the success of the annual.

Ernestine Stumpf and George McKay, editor-in-chief and associate editor respectively, could have carried on only with difficulty had they not had Aunty Leah to advise them. These three were assisted by the following staff: senior editors, George Koegel and Betty Edlavitch; organization editor, Bobby Dessauer; club editor, Betty Colling; business managers, Pauline Springer, Neva Williams; sports writers, Leland Maxwell, Ward Beers, Tom Miller, Blair Hattersley, Louis Juillard; girls' sports editor, Rita Bolson; assistant, Sara Masterson; snapshot editors, Gene Beugnot, Harriet Fuelber; feature editor, Ruth Holderman; feature writers, Betty Hogle, Dorothy Hassan, Ben Falk, Leland Maxwell; junior editors, Felix Zweig, Ruth Alice Ream; sophomore editors, Blair Hattersley, Mary Aldred; freshman editors, Helen Doswell, Edwin Stumpf; art editor, Anita Scheumann; typist, Esther Sams.

Major and Minor Spotlight Staff

Publishers of the Newspaper

Operating under great difficulties due to the few number of subscriptions and the inability of the merchants to advertise, the Spotlight staff struggled during the year of 1932-33 to keep up the weekly editions. But with a "do-it-or-die" spirit, they bravely published a paper each week, not always as big a paper as they wished to put out, but, nevetheless, a real-for-sure "Spotlight."

In order to help defray the great expenses, the Spotlight Staff gave a tea dance at the beginning of the school year. This was quite a success and netted about sixteen dollars. A Circus Maximus was also presented by this energetic group. This latter was given during the spring semester and was quite a delight to the numbers that attended.

Ben Falk, editor for the first semester, is best remembered for his editorials. No one but the inimitable Falk could write such an adroit column, full of puns, wit, and oh-such-long words. He was assisted by Betty Edlavitch, manager; Neva Williams and Jean Beugnot, desk editors; Betty Colling and Bobby Dessauer, news editors; Winifred Mertz, feature editor; Earl Superfine, sports editor; Ruth Alice Ream, society editor; Betty Hogle, Pauline Gemmer, Pauline Springer, Georgianna Miller, George Koegel, Rita Bolson, Sara Masterson, copy editors; Helen Doswell, Joe Tucker, Virginia Bash, Jane Palmer, Helen Palmer, Bob Smith, and Frances Berg, feature writers; Dick Hopper, George McKay, Blair Hattersley, Paul Lenz, Bob Scott, Maxine Monroe, Elsa Mae Sutton, sports writers; Harriet Fuelber, Barney Garmire, advertising managers; John Broom, Elda Faster, Raymond Bates, Jim Curran, Lefa Downing, Kenneth Timma, and Muriel Chalmers, advertising solicitors; Betty Lyons and Delores Slagle, business managers; Dot Hassan and Tiny Klein, circulation managers; Ed Stumpf, circulation assistant; Rosemary Crowe and Emily Bedree, typists.

The second semester Betty Edlavitch was promoted to the position of editor. In this capacity she ably proved her ability as a journalist. The staff under her contains the following people: assistant editors, Neva Williams and Jean Beugnot; managing editor, Bobby Dessauer; class editor, Pauline Springer; desk editors, Rita Bolson and Betty Hogle; news editors, Dorothy Hassan and Betty Colling; sports editors, Blair Hattersley and Hattie Fuelber; feature editor, Mary Aldred; literary editor, Virginia Coverdale; sports writers, Tom Miller, Ward Beers, John Laymon, Dick Hopper, Paul Lenz, George McKay, Jim Curran, Bob Scott, Leland Maxwell; exchange editor, Betty Lyons; copy editors, George McKay, Ed Stumpf, Ruth Holderman, Hilda Grab, Mabel Springer, Winifred Mertz, Pauline Gemmer; society editors, Jane Palmer and Vivian Rider; feature writers, Virginia Bash, Doris Gettys, Bob Smith, Helen Palmer, Helen Doswell, Alois Derry, Victor Boerger, Shirley Young.

On the circulation staff are Barbara Leif, John Laymon, circulation managers, assisted by Frances Berg and Esther Heine, typists. Delores Slagle and Norma Elliot head the business staff. Billy Evans and Bob Shirey are the ad managers.

Miss Leah Austin, with her same sweet willingness to do all she can and more too, and Mr. John R. Jones, with his abundant supply of new ideas for subscription drives, etc., are in a large way responsible for the continuation of publications.

Pride of the School

Central High School's band, composed of approximately forty members, is one of which to be proud. The "classy" uniforms make it the best dressed high school band in the city. These uniforns, purchased last year by various clubs and organizations of the school, consist of a white sweater, on which is sewed a blue lyre, and blue trousers with a white stripe. Added to this are blue capes lined with white, with a blue Pershing cap completing the outfit.

This band was organized in 1923 under the direction of Mr. Roland Shaffer. Since then it has had several directors, among whom are Mr. Stanley Teel and Mr. William Sur. At present, Mr. Gaston Bailhe, a member of the faculty, is at the head. He has held this position since 1929. Much credit is due him for the success of the group.

Barney Garmire, drum major, has helped Mr. Bailhe much in improving the band. His graduation this year will leave a vacancy, that at present seems hard to fill.

The music at all home football and basketball games has been furnished by these music makers. They are, likewise, responsible for the music at pep sessions, and at the sectional and regional tournaments they played for the entertainment of the spectators.

Makers of Music

The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Gaston Bailhe, music instructor at Central High, consists of thirty members. Of these only four or five are expected to be graduated. Much has been accomplished by the members of this group.

In this orchestra there is a big variety of instruments, enough to have complete instrumentation. Besides the usual violins, cellos, clarinets, trombones, and cornets, there are an oboe, a flute, a French horn, and a tuba. The drums are complete with snares, bass, and timpano, or kettle drum.

Unusual in the story of this year's orchestra is the individual record of a few students. Herman Conine deserves honorable mention for his speed in learning to play the oboe. Mr. Bailhe bought this instrument to help perfect the orchestration, and within three weeks' time Herman was playing it in the orchestra. Similar is the success of John Broom with the flute. Lottie Heyn and Robert Dilts have made a creditable standing for themselves by means of their faithfulness and hard work.

The orchestra has played not only for affairs at school, such as the operetta and the extemporaneous speaking contest, but for the Y.W.C.A. and the Chamber of Commerce. In April it entered in the state and district contests at Columbia City.

Organizes Chamber Music

Mr. Bailhe, head of Central's music department, is deserving of much noteworthy praise for his hard work and especially for his founding of the chamber music. According to Mr. Bailhe, he inaugurated the organization "because of its worthwhile education and its influence in the home. It helps to keep the youngsters together and especially does it further music in the home."

Twenty to twenty-five people have the honor of being members. They were chosen from the band and orchestra as the best representatives of their respective groups. They have played at numerous places including many banquets and churches, parent-teacher meetings, the Y.M.C.A., and the Chamber of Commerce. Different group combinations played at the contest at Columbia City held last April.

Mr. Bailhe has made various combines. Some of them are as follows: four violins and piano, four clarinets and piano, four cornets and piano, a brass quintet, and octettes of strings, brass, and woodwinds each. The mixed combination of trombone, French horn, violin, cornet, clarinet, cello, and piano adds variety to the music harmony.

It is the hope of those interested in the future of music development at Central High School that this work, so admirably started by Mr. Bailhe, will continue to flourish.

Singers of Merit

Interesting to note is the recognition given to those girls whose voices are outstanding. In 1925 when Mr. Sur came to Central he organized the music functions at the school. Among these besides the girls' glee club, was the girls' quartet. These girls were chosen to participate because they seemed the most talented.

The following year there was a girls' octette. This group was named for the excellency of their voices. In 1928 the girls' double trio replaced the quartet of former years. The Ensemble, another assemblage similar to those mentioned above was formed in the succeeding year.

Three years ago the first A'Capella Choir came into existence. Again the members were the ones who had the most pleasing voices. And this year the A'Capella Choir is an active group.

Mr. Bailhe, director of music, elected the twelve girls from the glee clubs who had the outstanding voices to participate. To be a member of this group which sings without accompaniment, as A'Capella means, is purely honorary. Four first sopranos, four second sopranos, and four altos compose the choir.

Among the places at which these girls have entertained are the Lion's Club, the First National Bank, the First Methodist Church, the Christmas plays here at Central, and the radio station, from which they broadcast. But, as everything else that is successful, these people devoted much time to practice and so are worthy of credit.

Public Speaking Activities

Under the capable leadership of Mr. Albert A. Coil, director of speech at Central for the past two years, the public speaking department has been unusually active. Producing a championship debate team has been only one of the accomplishments of Mr. Coil. He prepared another team of eight who competed in the State Debate League Contest, only to be defeated in the district finals; he sponsored the local chapter of the National Forensic League; he coached orators, debaters, and discussionists. With all this to his credit, Mr. Coil earned enough points to merit for himself the highest degree given by the National Forensic League, the degree of distinction.

Members of the team that won the North-eastern Indiana Conference victory are: affirmative team, Kenneth Smith, Glyda Heckler, Jacob Ochstein, and Paul Kigar, alternate; negative team: Neva Williams, Bill Robbins, Paul Kigar, and Ruth Alice Ream, alternate. The question as debated was, "Resolved; all hydro-electric power in the United States should be owned and operated by the government." Debating the same question were the participants in the State Debate League Contest. On this team the affirmative consisted of Kenneth Smith, Felix Zweig, Jacob Ochstein, and Dale Hertel, alternate, with Bill Robbins, Paul Kigar, Ruth Alice Ream, and Robert Heine, alternate, on the negative.

Speakers of Merit

New to Indiana is the Indiana speaking tournament, held in Fort Wayne during the month of May, under the direct supervision of Mr. Coil, who was appointed by Mr. C. C. Dietert, Indiana state chairman of the National Forensic League.

Paul Kigar presented to the school the Kigar Cup as an incentive to extemporaneous speakers. By virtue of winning the Rohrbaugh Cup three successive times, he was entitled to permanent possession of it; but, according to precedent, he returned it to Central High.

A declamation contest, the annual Freshman-Sophomore Ex-temporaneous Contest, one representative in the oratorical contest sponsored by the Citizenship Committee of the Fort Wayne Woman's Club, one in the county oratorical contest, one in the state discussion contest, are added activities of the public speaking department.

Joe Tucker was, at the beginning of the year, elected president of the National Forensic League, but due to his surplus of points in the outside curriculum, he was forced to give up this honor. Upon his resignation, Paul Kigar, vice-president, was made president. Positions of secretary and treasurer, held by Ruth Alice Ream, and Neva Williams, respectively, were maintained throughout the two semesters. The activities of the group include a picnic, held early in the fall, an April Fools' Dance, Bow Day, and a banquet, the last to be held sometime in June.

According to the record of points, in addition to the coach, three students, Ruth Alice Ream, Paul Kigar and Bill Robbins have won the degree of distinction. Two others, Jacob Ochstein and Kenneth Smith, lack only a few points in reaching one hundred.

Torch Club

The Torch Club was organized several years ago in Central. Its work is similar to the Hi-Y Club, and membership is open to all freshman and sophomore boys.

During the year several interesting programs were held. Mr. Finan, who spoke on "catching fish", and also gave a motion picture of them, was probably one of the most interesting speakers. Mr. Warner, another well known speaker, gave a demonstration of archery. Later in the year a discussion, "What do you consider a success in life, and what qualities are necessary?", was held.

The season was closed at a meeting at which Mr. Hendricks exhibited a rare selection of Indian Handicraft.

The Torch Club has an enrollment of twenty-five members.

Officers of the Club: First semester—President, Harold Sams; vice-president, John Laymon; secretary, James Kipfer; treasurer, V. Carlson. Second semester—President, Herman Deck; vice-president, Robert McAleece; secretary, James Kipfer; treasurer, Harold Sams; advisor, Mr. Michaud.

Archery Club

Central Archery Club, a newly formed organization at this school, was installed in December, 1932. It was established with the purpose of encouraging the practice of archery, "The Sport of Kings", to the students.

The activities of this club are confined mostly to the range, located in the boys' gym. Interesting contests are held under the capable direction of Mr. Wilson, who has been the advisor since its origin, and who has done much to bring about the archery movement in Central High School.

Officers of Club

President ..... Carl Derheimer
Vice-president ..... James Wyatt
Secretary-Treasurer ..... Joe Deck

Senior Hi-Y Club

The members of the Senior Hi-Y Club have had a very interesting season this year. Under the supervision of Mr. Potterf, a great number of interesting speakers have been obtained.

Mr. Croninger opened the first meeting of the year when he spoke on "Hi-Y Clubs in the Past". Following this meeting, Judge McNabb spoke on "Problems of Circuit Court"; Judge Leonard on "History of Law"; Judge Ballou on "Systems of Courts"; Mr. Ploufman on "Advantages of a Technical Education"; Mr. Gonzales on "Life and Customs in Porto Rico"; Charles Warden on "Insurance"; Mr. Richardson on "The Wabash and Erie Canal"; Mr. Frankfather on "Identification of Mankind"; Les Logan on "Life in Notre Dame"; Mr. Nolan on "What Purdue Offers in Engineering"; and Cong. David Hogg spoke at the last meeting of the year on "Depression".

The club officers for the two semesters were as follows:

First semester: president, Richard Paul; vice-president, Norman Voelker; secretary, Glenn Waltke; treasurer, Jack Edwards; and chaplain, Ray Sanderson. Second semester: president, Richard Paul; vice-president, Romaine Doenges; secretary, Glenn Waltke; treasurer, Jack Edwards; and chaplain, Don Evans; advisor, Mr. Potterf.

Student Players' Club

Student Players' Club has had many varied programs this year, which have given forth inspirational entertainment to the members.

On October 12, the club was presented a preliminary showing of the one-act play, "The Thing." The cast of characters was as follows: The Man, Joe Tucker; The Thing, George Koegel.

The December meeting was in charge of Max Callison, who, with the assistance of Dorothy Gray, presented the prologue from "June Moon". Later a preliminary performance of "Theories and Thumbs" was presented. The cast of characters included the following: Betty Colling, Vivian Rider, Anita Scheumann, Harriet Fuelber, Helen Palmer, and Anna Rose Haffner.

The last meeting of the first semester was held in the form of a joint gathering of all three city high school clubs at North Side. Services were held for initiates from the three schools.

Officers for both semesters are as follows:

First semester:	Second semester:
President—George Koegel	Joe Tucker
Vice-president—Betty Colling	Charles Porter
Secretary—Edilou Bailhe	Neva Williams
Treasurer—Dorothy Hassan	Anita Scheumann

Central Triangle Club

The first meeting of the Central Triangle Club was held in the form of a picnic for freshmen.

The most important thing done this year by the club was the making of children's dresses for the Needle Work Guild. Baskets for the poor were given at Thanksgiving and Christmas by the club members.

On March 16, the Central Triangle Club was honored by the presence of Mr. Moses, of the Fort Wayne Book Shop, who spoke on the background of Irish poetry.

All freshmen and sophomore girls are eligible to become members of C. T. C. which is one of the branches of the Girl Reserves. The club was originally called U. P. D.—the three letters representing Usefulness, Patriotism, and Devotion. This club was an offspring of Friendship club and came into existence in 1919.

The officers for the first and second terms are as follows:

First semester:	Second semester:
President—Mary Aldred	Virginia Coverdale
Vice-president—Mildred Hawkins	Mildred Hawkins
Secretary—Virginia Wilkenson	Betty Jane Nieman
Treasurer—Alberta Lipp	Dorothy Masursky

Math Club

The Mathematics Club carried on varied activities during the past year, guided by these officers: first semester—Madelyn Weseman, president; Felix Zweig, vice-president; Margery Uebelhoer, secretary; and William Robbins, treasurer; second semester—Felix Zweig, president; Rita Bolson, vice-president; Esther Heine, secretary, and Ray Sanderson, treasurer.

Mr. Irwin Arnold, a member of the faculty, talked to the club concerning many practical applications of mathematics. He demonstrated its use in constructing minute gears, in planning houses, and in building large ships.

Miss Mary Catherine Smeltzly addressed the members on "Schools in Mexico". A point of special interest to the club was that in Mexican public schools, the curriculum is not largely mathematical nor literary, but vocational.

On Lincoln's birthday, Felix Zweig, president, presented to the school, in behalf of the Math Club, a bust of Lincoln. At this assembly, presided over by Madelyn Weseman, Mr. Croninger received the bust for the student body. After Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, presented by William Robbins, and the Pledge of Allegiance led by Robert Dilts, Paul Kigar, at the request of the club, delivered his speech, "Lincoln and the Constitution", with which he won second place in the State Oratorical Contest last year.

Club Scatters Cheer

The Friendship Club, brought to Central by Miss Mary Harrah, is one of the most popular branches of the Girl Reserves. Its purpose is to unite its members in a spirit of friendliness and service, to create a friendly spirit among high school girls, to develop habits of helpfulness, and to promote growth in Christian character.

Among the interesting programs held this year was a discussion of "Hero-worship" on March 7 under the direction of Georgianna Miller. On March 21, the club made Easter baskets for the Pixley Relief Home. They sponsored a faculty tea on April 4, and on May 2, a Donkey Party. Probably the most interesting program given during the year was a talk by Mrs. Rothert on journalism.

Officers of the year: First semester—Anita Scheumann, president; Rosemary Crowe, vice-president; Imogene Bloemker, secretary; Muriel Chalmers, treasurer. Second semester—Dean Parks, president; Dorothy Hassan, vice-president; Elda Faster, secretary; Gertrude Adler, treasurer.

Junior Hi-Y

One of the most popular boys' organizations in Central is the Junior Hi-Y, under the advisorship of Mr. Virts. As an outgrowth of the Senior Hi-Y it was organized this year for junior boys and has had a quite commendable season.

The meetings were very much enjoyed, with many prominent and interesting speakers contributing to their success. Among them were Mr. Gonzales, who rendered a fine description of Porto Rico, once his home; Mr. Whittier, head of the local Weather Bureau; Ben Tenney, who conducted an enlightening "question and answer" meeting on the sport world; Bob Nulf, reviewing the State Tournament; Rev. A. P. Wilson, Dr. Gillie and Mr. Klaehn, who showed pictures of a hunting trip in Canada.

Near the close of the year the club became socially inclined and sponsored a highly successful Hi-Y Banquet and Funfest. For a fitting finale they held a stag party at the home of Mr. Virts.

The officers of the organization for the two semesters were as follows:

President - - - - - - - - LELAND MAXWELL, HENRY LOJEK
Vice-president - - - - - - - - - ED DOELL, RALPH WINANS
Secretary - - - - - - - - - - - JACK SEIGEL, JACK SEIGEL
Treasurer - - - - - - - - - ED RICHARDSON, MAX BARRETT

First row: H. Lojek, C. Keirns, J. Seigel, E. Doell, L. Maxwell, O. Blessing, M. Barrett. Second row: R. Winans, J. Mitchell, B. Kissinger, E. Richardson, Mr. Ralph A. Virts, L. Reed, W. Adler. Third row: W. Tilker, G. McKay, D. Barth, J. Parks, K. Bangs, D. Crum, H. Conine, E. Kruse.

Co-Op Club Activities

The Co-Operative Club was organized December, 1928, by members of the Co-Operative department. The membership of this club is made up of members of the Co-Operative class. There is at the present time one hundred and twenty-five members on the roll, of which one hundred and two are honorary members and twenty-three active members. The honorary members are graduates of the Co-Operative course.

The members of this club have many interesting and worthwhile entertainments, which include the initiation, regular monthly social events, and weiner bakes, trips through factories, and meetings at which speakers talk on many phases of industrial and social work. At the close of each year an annual banquet is held.

The regular meetings of the Co-Op Club are held the third Thursday evening of each month. As this is the last year of the Co-Operative course from which the active members of the club are secured, plans have been made to form an Alumni Co-Op Club. An invitation to join this club has been extended to all graduates of the Co-Operative course.

The officers are:

President, R. Kaeck; vice-president, A. Volz; secretary-treasurer, N. Bakalar.

First row: L. Reinking, W. Braun, E. Dissinger, V. Parr, N. Bakalar, secretary; Mr. Tonkel, advisor; R. Kaeck, president, G. Houser, R. Doenges, R. Buesching. Second row: W. Rietdorf, D. Schoenefeld, W. Linsky, A. Volz, A. Hammer, P. Bickel, W. Byers. Third row: M. Bobay, B. Meyers, K. Shoppel, H. Thiele, N. Radu, W. Tepin, T. Hilker.

The C. G. A. A.

The Central Girls' Athletic Association is an athletic club for the girls of Central. Its purpose is to inspire the girls' interest in athletics; to promote good sportmanship, and fair play; and to promote the spirit of loyalty among the girls of the club.

For active membership a girl must earn one hundred points a year in such sports as: soccer, volley ball, baseball, basketball, etc. This year the award system has been changed. The girls now have eight sports in which they can participate. So the awards are: a numeral for 300 points, a "C" for 600 points, the Special "C" with G. A. A. woven on it, for 1,000, and sweaters for the three seniors that have the highest number of points. The activities carried out this year have been numerous and exceedingly interesting. For the past year, under the supervision of Miss Ingham and Miss Adams, the girls have been taking swimming and diving lessons at the North Side swimming pool. This group meets once a week. The girls enjoyed soccer and baseball more this year because they had a lot of their own on which to play. This year the tumbling was on a different basis. Each class has its own practice night. To get points for tumbling each girl must pass a test before she is eligible to make a team. Much interest is placed in tumbling because it is the main feature of the exhibition which the girls give once a year.

Home Economics Club

The Home Economics Club is one of Central's most popular clubs. Their work this year has been set aside mostly for the making of a quilt, which was given to charity.

At the club meetings, which are held once a month, the time was devoted to business sessions, welfare work, and a few entertainment meetings.

Probably the largest party this year was given in honor of the freshman girls, to instill in them an interest in the Home Economics Club.

Not satisfied with the mere making of articles for charity, the Home Economics Club this year made plans for a circulating magazine library. The purpose of this library is to bring girls, who do not have the privilege of reading such magazines, in contact with them. It is not yet definitely settled as to whether this will be a success, but with the cooperation of the members an outlook for a successful library is in view.

Vagabonds

One year ago this spring, a call was issued to all junior, senior, and sophomore pupils, interested in travel, to meet for the planning and discussion of a new club.

And so on April 27, 1932, fifty-five pupils unanimously voted to organize a club which had as its object the enjoyment of the history, customs, legends, and pictures of foreign countries.

At the next meeting, held May 2, 1932 the officers of the club were announced. They were as follows: president, Jean Beugnot; vice-president, Ruth Ream; secretary, Raymond Houser; treasurer, Robert Cantwell.

Out of the many names considered by the name committee, "The Vagabond" was selected as the name of the travel club.

This year, Central's newest club has taken an active part in the social functions of the school. On October 7, a tea dance was held, and on December 19, a beautiful portrait of Anthony Wayne was presented to the school. The present officers of the club are: Anita Scheumann, president; Herbert Borkenstein, vice-president; Bernadine Stauffer, secretary; Dalton Degitz, treasurer; Miss Smeltzly, Miss Thomas, advisors.

Art Club

Central's Art Club has had a very interesting program this year. Under the direction of Miss Zent, well known art teacher in Fort Wayne, a trip to the Yohanan Oriental Shop was planned.

All members of the club attended this exhibition which was very interesting. Rugs and their method of making were both demonstrated and explained by Mr. Yohanan.

At a later meeting in the fall semester, Miss Marion Bash, teacher at North Side High School, gave an exhibition of some pictures she had taken while abroad.

Two successful tea dances were also sponsored by this club, first, their annual Valentine Tea Dance and later the Art Exhibition Tea Dance, at which an exhibition from Indianapolis was on display.

Money from these dances was used in the purchasing of a picture which was donated to the Day Nursery.

The officers of this club were: president, Anita Scheumann; vice-president, Betty Colling; secretary, Harold Holbrock; and treasurer, Joe Authenrieth.

First row—J. Beiersdorfer, W. Barter, E. Hines, B. Hogle; Second row—E. Speckman, E. Henschen, M. Bittler, E. Hemerick, Miss Zent, R. Lewerenz, L. Plummer, O. Foster, W. Bertram, O. O'Rourke, R. Foster; Third row—T. Burton, M. Minsel, G. Speckien, E. Beamer, I. Bloemker, F. Oser, C. Astell, T. Merriman, B. Burton, M. Grabner, N. Elliot, D. Slagle, L. Hennesey; Fourth row—W. Mertz, J. Fredrickson, R. Cantwell, M. Roberts, M. Cours, R. Minsel, M. Detamore, A. Hostler, G. Adler, M. Nahrwald, E. Shaw; Fifth row—E. Roesner, J. Deck, J. Laymon, W. Cromwell, M. Sawyer, J. Golembiewski, H. Holbrook, L. Steele, J. Autenreith, K. Derheimer, J. Hazelett.

Club Studies Radio

The Radio Club, under the direction of J. H. Hines, has had a fairly active season this year. The club's attention is entirely devoted to radio, both the construction and the method of working.

During the year a tube analysis was held, an oscillator demonstration, a smallest set project, a general radio discussion, and talks on general radio interest.

The officers were as follows:

First semester: Norman Voelker, President; Leland Maxwell, Vice-president; Kenneth L. Smith, Secretary-treasurer.

Second semester: Richard Jordan, President; Gerhardt Wolff, Vice-president; Glenn Waltke, Secretary-treasurer.

Sorosis

One of the most interesting meetings of Sorosis Club was held February 23, in the clubrooms.

That particular afternoon was devoted to poetry. Each member of the organization read her favorite poem. Dean Parks read "Little Boy Blue" by Eugene Field, and "Trees" by Joyce Kilmer. Pauline Springer chose "On His Blindness" by John Milton, Betty Arnold, "Homing" by Sara Henderson Hay. Esther Rhodes read Longfellow's "Psalm of Life". Edilou Bailhe's favorite was "Velvet Shoes" by Eleanore Wiley and "Vespers" by A. A. Milne. Lillian Oetting read "Trail End" by Cristel Hastings, and Miss Katherine Welch chose "Philadelphia" by Louise Driscoll. The members of the club were also given the privilege of reading one of Miss Welch's original poems entitled "Driftage".

The treasurer and the secretary then merged in their efforts to appease "Old Man Hunger" with tangerines and cocoanut macaroons. The members tarried to derive some inspiration from the refreshments to compose some original bits of rhyme, but unfortunately the subjects were just a little too practical.

Officers of Club.

President, Edilou Bailhe; vice-president, Dean Parks; secretary, Lillian Oetting; treasurer, Betty Arnold; advisor, Katherine Welch.

Booster Club

In addition to its usual custom of sponsoring two dances in honor of the athletes at Central, namely the Tiger Hop and Football Mixer, the Booster Club this year was host to the Basketball Tournament.

Much time was spent in the making of decorations, and novelty stunts helped this tournament to be probably one of the most successful ones in several years.

The various committee heads in charge of the tournament were: G. McKay, N. Williams, J. Tucker, B. Edlavitch, E. Stumpf, B. Cantwell, R. Bolson, M. Thompson, B. Colling, B. Falk, P. Springer, G. Koegel, B. Dessauer, B. Dilts, L. Maxwell, H. Fuelber, and C. Porter.

Booster members acted as guides to all visitors, and also served them with candies, pop corn and gum. The girls were distinguished from other people by dainty little capes and by rosettes which they wore on their heads.

The chairman of the club this year was Joe Tucker, and Mary Thompson acted as secretary.

This club is representative of all clubs in the school, membership being made up of one outstanding member of each club.

First row—C. Uebelhoer, P. Springer, E. Stumpf, H. Franke; Second row—R. Bolson, J. Palmer, N. Kover, R. Ream, Miss Mildred Brigham, J. Tucker, M. Thompson, B. Colling, G. Throp, F. Janorschke; Third row—G. Heckler, L. Maxwell, H. Fuelber, R. Cantwell, B. Edlavitch, N. Williams, B. Dessauer, E. Stumpf, M. Uebelhoer, M. Hanley; Fourth row—B. Falk, R. Ridpath, V. Bash, M. Aldred, E. Bailhe, G. McKay, J. Broom, B. Robbins; Fifth row—R. Sanderson, P. Kigar, J. Beugnot, G. Koegel, B. Hattersley, R. Dilts, N. Voelker, T. Miller, E. Superfine, R. Barnes.

Honor Society

Honor Society has been entertained with many interesting programs this year. At one of their meetings, Dan Zehr, popular Fort Wayne swimmer and 1932 Olympic star, spoke. Dan told of his experiences in the games he entered, and of the social functions that were given in his honor.

On March 1, 1933, the club was entertained by Miss Rehorst of South Side High School, who spoke on the work in Labrador under Sir Wilfred Grenfell.

Probably the biggest achievement of the Honor Society this year was their operation of the second-hand book store. The store, under the supervision of Mr. Butler, took in $16.50 the first semester on second hand books, and $10.50 the second semester.

The purpose of the Honor Society at Central is to stimulate and recognize scholastic attainments. Membership is open to any student having made 3A's and nothing lower than a B.

Officers the first semester were: president, Betty Edlavitch; vice-president, Paul Lenz; secretary-treasurer, Mary Aldred; second semester: president, Marjorie Hanley; vice-president, Leland Maxwell; secretary-treasurer, Virginia Coverdale.

Sharp-shooters

The Central High School Junior Rifle Club was organized in January of this year and immediately applied for and received a charter membership in the junior division of the National Rifle Association. At the organization meeting officers were elected and a set of by-laws formulated and submitted for approval by the N. R. A. State Secretary and the Adjutant-General of the state of Indiana. The officers elected were: president, Harry Pease; vice-president, William Kaiser; secretary, Lee Klopfenstein; treasurer, Bill Robbins; executive officer, Arthur Hammer; instructors, Mr. Veatch and Miss Priest.

Due to the newness of the organization, not many competitive meets were held. Central lost to Arcola by two points and to South Side by seven points. North Side was defeated by a large score. In the county meet, for the Dickens Cup, teams were entered by North Side, South Side, Arcola, Elmhurst and Central. South Side won the trophy which had been won twice in succession.

The county meet was the first real competition for most of Central's team and they ended up at the cellar position. "Smitty" had a bad case of buck fever, and as a result the Centralites made a poor showing. Arthur Hammer, Don Shoenfeld, Harry Pease, Edward Bobilya and James Smith were the members of the team.

Elizabeth Kaiser, Virginia Wilkinson, Evelyn Speckman, Isabel Bundy, Mary Jones and Waneta Barter were best on the girls' team. The girls' team held no competitive meets this year but will be ready by next fall to show our rivals how a rifle should be handled.

Girls' Archery

Due to the demand of students, a Girls' Archery Club was formed in the month of April. With Miss White as faculty advisor, the girls learned to shoot with some degree of accuracy. Equipment, consisting of several bows and some dozen arrows, was made by two members of the Boys' Archery Club. The membership is made up of 12 girls.

STATEMENT FROM TED HUSING

"Greetings to the young ladies and young men of Central High School! And to the editors of the Caldron, may I offer my appreciation for the honor they do me in according me a niche in the sports section of the volume.

"I'd like to take this advantage to point out briefly my firm conviction of the value of sports in the high school program. The fine teams turned out by such schools as Central High are invaluable in the development of vigorous, keen-minded, and alert young men and women. The fellow who can strike a man out with the bases full, and the lad who can wriggle away from an almost sure tackle for a winning touchdown are apt to be people who can get out of tough spots of other kinds when school days are past and more serious things call for all they can give. From such high school teams eventually come the athletic great of the country. The potential all-Americans whose gridiron glories thrill hundreds of thousands of stadium sitters and millions of fireside radio listeners every Saturday afternoon in the fall, the players whose prowess fills the college and professional ball parks in the spring and summer, and all the other standout athletes whose feats in tank and pool, on cinder track or rink, bring them popular recognition from coast to coast—almost every one has had his or her start as a high school athlete.

"Radio broadcasting has, I believe, done much in bringing these contests to the ears of the nation, to popularize sports, and to make their helpful influences more and more attractive to the young people of America. And if we can be sure that is the case, those of us who participate in this thrilling dissemination of the news of sporting events to the radio listeners of the country are happy in the knowledge that we are doing a satisfactory job in a work that we consider vital.

TED HUSING" (CBS announcer, specializing in sports and special events broadcasts)

The man, who is known to all of us, who has brought to our ears each Saturday afternoon in the fall, those clear and concise play-by-play reviews of the football games, who stands for the highest ideals in sport, is the person we have chosen to announce our athletic section in this 1933 Caldron, Ted Husing. His ideals in sports are the ideals that are carried out in Central; good, clean games, with well matched teams, and the aim of the players to do their best.

Football Summary

Central's 1932 football eleven finished a successful season by winning six out of eight starts to secure a total of 131 points against 79 for their opponents.

For the opening encounter the Tigers traveled to Bluffton for a battle under search lights. This battle ended 6 to 0 in favor of the visiting team with Sitko carrying the ball behind perfect interference for the touchdown. Bluffton's favorites were in position to score several times but fumbled.

Elkhart trounced the Tigers in their second encounter, 18 to 0, which was the first of the two defeats suffered by the Tigers during their season. Elkhart had the entire game pretty much their way.

The Tigers trounced the Irish of Central Catholic in the first gridiron clash between these two schools in ten years. The Irish were outclassed in everything but passes, and were downed by a score of 25 to 6.

Central downed the favorites, North Side, in an interesting battle by the score of 25 to 12. The Redskins opened the scoring with six points, but the Tigers came back with seven points which was followed by two touchdowns before North Side could score again.

The Decatur Yellow Jackets were trounced by Central in the next game, 25 to 6. Decatur scored first, then the Central varsity was sent in and scored twice in quick succession to put the game on ice.

In a surprisingly hard fought game, Columbia City was downed 25 to 12. The varsity easily scored twice, then the second team battled for supremacy in the remainder of the game.

After four touchdowns were scored by Central the freshman team was sent into the Central-Concordia fray, but after losing considerable ground was withdrawn. The final score stood at 25 to 12 as the final gun sounded.

But this was the end to the Tigers' list of games won by a score of 25 to 6 or 12, as in the succeeding game the team was downed by the South Side Archers, 13 to 0, after a hard fight. After a see-saw battle for the first three periods, the Archers scored twice on the fast-tiring Tigers. Central did not give up until the final gun although they were forced to bow before the superior force.

The Gridiron

Central had a football team composed of eleven gridiron stars, not to mention the first-class reserves at hand ever ready to give their best in the fight for victory. However, several of these Tigers deserve special mention for the way in which they have upheld the name of Central High School in this fall sport.

Since the Blue and White have annexed six games of the eight contested, they have naturally aggregated a large number of points, and for this, Central is indebted to none other than our fleet-footed, fast-thinking Bob Hawkins. This was Bob's first year on the first string, although he played several times in games last year. At left half Bob was the ball-toter in plunges and most running plays.

No less helpful in counting up tallies was Joe Burnett, tantalizing threat at right half. Joe is a boon to the freshman class for he, a Frosh himself, was Central's second high scorer during the season. Aided many times by the advances of his team-mates, this flash found no trouble whatever in adding that final finishing touch. Joe will be a great aid in forming future championship squads.

John Sitko was always recognized as that stocky star who would drop back of the line with hands outstreched, ready to receive the ball and punt it far into enemy territory. Sitko pulled the team out of many a tight place with his trusty toe, and his loss will be felt to no small extent by his graduation.

These boys, along with Millikan, Korn, and Thornburg, gave that final drive that assured a small but stubborn gridiron team a successful football season.

The 1933 Central High School's football team will have a wealth of good backfield material with a tendency to be weak in the line.

Trott, Swift, and Sitko, who were on all-city team for the last two years; Kies, Greenwell and Jensen, all of the varsity, are the other linemen that graduate while Thornberg is the only Seals is the only remaining lineman from last year's team. He plays end and is the leading interference man on many plays.

Kern, Millikan, Hawkins, Winegart and Langas will probably make up the first team backfield, although there are many others to make these work every minute.

Many linesmen will vie for the varsity with Juillard, Hart, Hughes, Hayes, Menze, Griffith and Grimme supplying the competition.

Mendenhall should develop a fairly strong team that will furnish strong opposition for any team in the district.

Cheer Leading's Their Job

Central would not be Central without its boisterous bunch of cheer leaders to instill enthusiasm into the student body. "Chuck" Porter, Ray Ridpath, Frank Janorschke and Jim Curran form the quartet.

These four varsity yell leaders have been ably coached by Mr. Howard Michaud, who in addition to this, has charge of all the pep sessions. "Chuck" and Ray are seniors and for the past three years have been urging on the student body to greater heights of mass vocalism. Ray has developed both nimbleness and rhythm. His favorite yell is "Sapolio". "Chuck", with never-dying vim and vigor, is a familiar sight on the basketball floor, urging louder responses from the rooters.

Frank made the varsity in his sophomore year and is a junior, as likewise is Jim, who made the varsity corps during the basketball season. These two have helped add fuel to the ever-burning enthusiasm of Central. Both are hard workers, and can be depended upon to start the ball rolling next fall.

The two reserve yell leaders this year are Carl Lee and Salem Bashara. The former is a member of the junior class, the latter a senior. A large group of aspirants turned out this year for yell leading. Practices are held every Thursday afternoon in the auditorium. From this reserve material, Mr. Michaud hopes to draw good varsity material.

Boosters in Tourney Garb

Tigers in the Tourney

The Sectional found the Tigers placed in an easy bracket with only Decatur, the defending champion, whom they had defeated earlier in the season.

In the first game the Tigers won a hard fought game from Hoagland, 27 to 24. Neat and Burton led the Tigers in scoring and defensive play. The score was tied at the half, 14 to 14, and 21 up at the close of the third quarter. With but 30 seconds remaining, Burton scored on a side shot to sew up the game.

In the first game of the Saturday morning session, Central ran up against Lafayette Central. The Pirates, led by Nicholsen and Smith, were decidedly "on" and dropped the Tigers, 32 to 24, in a thrilling encounter. Neat was the only Tiger who could score consistently, while Bollman and Burton starred for Central on defense.

This game spelled finis to Central's high hopes for winning the tourney.

Basketball Season

Central High School's Tigers played through a very erratic "off-on" 1932-1933 basketball season. Although they lost eleven of their regularly scheduled games they featured "hot" nights and beat highly touted fives one night, and lost to inferior quintets the next night.

The Tigers went through their season in true tiger-like form, however, and were much admired because they fought with fury even when the minutes to go were few and they were hopelessly behind. The season uncovered unusual ability in some of the Tigers and as all of the varsity five, except Burton, will be back next year, their future outlook is very encouraging.

In the initial start of the season, Central gave the Portland Panthers a seven point trouncing on the Friday of December 2, only to bow to a humiliating defeat on the next day at the hands of the powerful Hartford City five.

Central lost her first city series tilt to North Side at the Northern gymnasium.

The Tigers, then, played three games the next week-end and after warping Columbia City, took on Garrett and Frankfort in a double-header. They managed to nose out the Railroaders in the first game but were completely outclassed and outscored by the Hot-dogs in the night-cap.

During the Christmas holidays the team bowed down to Central Catholic, losing by five points. The Kendallville Comets were the next to defeat the Tigers but had plenty of trouble doing it as it was a fast, hard-fought contest.

The Tigers clashed with the South Side Archers in the annual charity tourney and fell before the well-oiled, smooth-working, Southern quintet to lose 21-18.

Basketball Season

Central hit a "hot" night in their next game and the far superior Auburn team, led by Dave Williams, was barely able to snare a close one-point victory from the Tigers, 24-23.

The Tigers continued their "hot" streak the next week to defeat Winamac, runner-up in the state tourney last year. By virtue of a last three-minute rally the Bluffton Tigers broke the Central Tiger's successive chain of victories to win by three points.

Still retaining their "hot" streak, the Tigers next beat Decatur, the 1932 Sectional Champs. At this point it looked as though the Tigers were not merely on a "hot" streak but actually playing in championship form. This is in fact mostly true as they were not playing "race horse" basketball, but methodical and precise basketball. The Tigers lost this form during their next two city-series tilts and lost both by large scores.

The next week, the scrapping team took all the sting out of their poor season's showing. They beat South Side!! They not only beat them, but with the aid of a new zone defense fairly trounced them by eleven points.

After losing a slow game to Warsaw, the Tigers forced the Washington of East Chicago's Senators to go to their limit to win the game.

In the final game of the season the scrapping Central Tigers went down to a superior Elkhart quintet led by Patnelle. Fighting with their boots on, when the fray closed, the curtain dropped on the 1932-1933 season for Central High School basketeers.

The 1933-34 Season

Central's basketball outlook for the 1933-34 season is exceedingly bright with Bollman, Warfield, Neat, Grimme, Hayes, Hostler, and Menze of the first team left to carry on for the the Tigers. They will be assisted by Buckmaster, Altekruse, Schawkey, McKee, Carl Hayes, Steve Sitko, and Kabish of the present reserve team.

The basketball team suffers the loss of such sterling men as Freddie Burton, John Sitko, Cliff Swift, Ed Trott, and Lawrence Romano by graduation. All of these have played basketball for three years on the reserve and varsity team.

Bill Bollman, Joe Grimme, and Lyle Neat are the polished ball players, although none are six feet tall. Neat is the sharpshooter of the quintet, hitting the basket from all angles of the floor. He is also an exceptional defensive man. Grimme is a strong guard and delights in long shots from the center of the floor just before the gun sounds.

Bill Bollman is the stylist of the team. He shoots from any angle with comparative ease and is a star on defense.

Warfield supplies the jumping ability of the squad. Although he is only 5 ft. 11 in. he can take the tip with consistency from a man well over 6 feet.

Neat and Warfield are sophomores, Bollman and Grimme juniors. These men are fairly sure of positions on next year's squad, but the rest of the men are all evenly matched and there should be a battle for the remaining berths on the varsity.

Hail, Coaches!

Coaches Murry Mendenhall and Bob Nulf

With the utterance of two names, Murray Mendenhall and Bob Nulf, one cannot help but think of the "fighting Central Tigers", of their enviable records in sports, and how extremely fortunate Central is to have such fine men for its athletic mentors. Between the two, Mendy and Bob supervised the boys' gym class and all of the varied intramural activities associated with them, along with the coaching of the Blue and White's feared teams in football, basketball, baseball and track. Truly an energetic and busy pair.

Chief of staff Mendenhall has been building battling elevens, scrapping quintets, and smoothly playing nines at Central for nine years, and with the passing of each year-stone his fame, and consequently Central's athletic prowess, has spread far and wide over the major portion of the state. He is known to all as a fair and square, persevering coach; one who not only teaches his charges the science and the skill of the sport, but instills into them that intangible something that resolves itself into the famous Central spirit that sets the Tigers apart from ordinary teams. Under Mendy, the boys know that they will be given every opportunity to prove their worth and for this reason opponents are never sure of a win until the final report of the gun.

Mendy occupies a place in the heart of every loyal Centralite. This quiet, unassuming man merits the respect and admiration of the entire student body, and when he walks out to address them the tremendous applause is symbolic, while their extreme quietness and attentiveness during the talks bears out their love. It can be truly said, "Mendy is the mentor whose meritoriousness is magisterial."

In the role of chief assistant Bob Nulf has proved to be a capable coach, well liked by the students and somewhat one of them as it was not so many years ago he was a student here himself. Well versed in sports, he drills the boys' football and basketball along with Mendy, and in his three years here has become a real right hand man. In charge of baseball, he has produced marvelous teams that by virtue of their smooth play have taken permanent possession of the N.E.I.C. baseball trophy.

From the first, Bob's smiling personality readily won itself into the hearts of the Tigers and has steadily increased. Another Central son has come into his own and we're certainly proud of it. Here's to you, Bob!!!

Intra-Mural Sports

Central High School had this year the most extensive intra-mural sports program ever before attempted. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Nulf and Mr. Murray Mendenhall, several of Central's men teachers including Mr. Willis Richardson, Mr. Charles Turpin, Mr. G. M. Wilson, Mr. Lester Hemphill, and Mr. Harry Veatch, each headed a group of boys in their phase of this program.

Mr. Richardson especially made a study of extra-curricular activity in Central. He found that not enough boys have taken part in this phase of school life. Therefore he originated this program so that every boy may participate in some sort of school activity.

Mr. Turpin headed a tennis tournament in the fall and organized a successful team in the spring. Mr. Wilson's call for an archery club was answered by many boys who were interested in this ancient sport. A Rifle Club was formed by Mr. Veatch and several matches were held with the other schools of the city.

On account of the success of last year's intra-mural basketball league, this sport was again pursued this year. However, a different arrangement was in effect. An all-star league was made up of teams consisting of players chosen by the coaches. This team was used as a "feeder" for the varsity and reserve squads. A junior and midget league was also organized in basketball for boys who wanted to play the regular teams. These leagues were divided as to weight.

The Central Foul Throw Tourney was won by Edward Steller, midget champion, when he defeated Jack Schreck, the senior division champion. Each contestant is given twenty foul shots and in case of a tie they are each given five extra chances to overcome the opposition. Steller and Schreck tied in their first trys, each making twelve shots good. In the play-off Steller scored four out of his five attempts while Schreck garnered only three. Schreck took the high-point honors when he made nineteen out of twenty shots against Ed Doell. Edward Steller came very close to tying J. Schreck's high-point total in one game when he hit eighteen out of twenty against runner-up Felger in the finals of the Midget tourney.

Spring Sports

Although no baseball team was organized at Central this year, Coach Murray Mendenhall put a reputable track team into the field. Mr. Charles Turpin's tennis team and Mr. Lester Hemphill's golfers completed the spring sports program for 1933.

In the 100 and 220-yard dashes, Mendy has three capable sprinters—Bob Hawkins, Bob Stewart and Clarence Keirns, who gained many a point for the Blue and White.

Les Menze is No. 1 man in the 440 with Clarence Keirns a close second, while the half mile is very capably taken care of by Menze and Jack Seigel.

In the mile run we again find Jack Seigel breaking the tape, but pressed to the limit by Christopher Dixie.

Ray Ridpath, Joel Proctor and Ed Roesener make their debut in 220-yard low hurdles. The high hurdles find Proctor and Filus defending Central's laurels.

The shot is expertly put by John Sitko and Proctor, with Charlton, a freshman, taking care of the broad jump.

Ray Hosler and Dick Warfield cross the bar for Central in the pole vault and high jump. Central's strong half mile relay team, Hawkins, Stewart, Keirns and Charlton, has won many a race this year, and her mile relay team is just as strong with Menze, Proctor, Seigel and Keirns alternating.

"Old Man Weather" conspired against the track, tennis and golf teams during all of April and the greater part of May this year and as a result the boys did not get as many workouts as usual. Although the spring teams were quite a way from championship calibre this year, all made a fairly creditable performance in the various meets.

Girls' Sports Program Varied

Each year class teams have been formed for each sport in which girls have participated. This year it was difficult to choose them because of the large number of girls who turned out. However, teams were finally formed for soccer, volleyball and basketball, and tournaments were played in all the sports except soccer.

Soccer is a new game just recently being introduced in the girls' gym classes. It is a game similar to boys' football. The team consists of eleven players. An outstanding difference from boys' football, however, is that a player cannot touch the ball with her hands. The game is started with a kick-off at center. The object is to get the ball over the enemy's territory and through the goal post which is guarded by a goal keeper, aided by quarterbacks and fullbacks. Because of unfavorable weather no tournament was played in this sport.

Then the girls' interest turned to volleyball where again teams were chosen and a tournament played. The seniors, led by Naomi Muth, as captain, were undefeated throughout the season, winning from the freshmen 9-21, the sophomores 6-21, and the juniors 6-21; thus bringing the season to a close.

Immediately "on the heels" of volleyball came basketball in which most people are interested. The class tournament was very interesting and exciting. It was quite a problem due to the fact that there are no overtimes in girls' basketball. The only team which was clearly eliminated was the freshmen, beaten by the sophomores 23-11, by the juniors 10-5, and by the seniors 15-2. The juniors almost consistently tied their opponents: the seniors at 13, the sophomores at 7, the sophomores again at 8; and were finally defeated by them 6-2. Meanwhile the seniors were nosed out 11-13 by the sophomores, who, after playing five games, finally clinched the tourney with wins over the other three classes.

Many Outstanding Athletes

Outstanding senior forwards were L. Downing and C. Mudd, who scored 17 and 22 points respectively in four games. Among the junior forwards the scoring was almost equally divided: M. J. Healea 15, E. Waltke 13, F. Kroemer 12, and H. Linnemeyer 10 in six games. For the sophomores F. Burris and M. Kinsey scored 20 points each and E. Hughes made 16 in their five games. In the three games played by the freshmen E. Novick and A. Lipp have 6 points each to their credit with 5 for L. Kies.

Among the guards these were outstanding: N. Muth, senior; M. J. Kabisch and H. Franke, juniors; I. Screeton and E. Dunn, sophomores; and C. Knoll, freshman.

The seniors have the record of averaging the greatest score per game, 12.5. Next follow the sophomores with 11.4, the juniors 8.3, and the freshmen 5.3.

An unusually large number of girls answered the call for tumbling this year. In fact, such a large group that it was necessary to separate them into groups, a different group meeting each night. This year a new plan was instituted. First and second teams were chosen from each class. These teams were the ones to perform in the exhibition.

The annual gym exhibition took place May 19 in the boys' gym. The meet opened by a parade of all the girls taking gym, who were dressed in their blue gym suits. This parade consisted of different marching formations including a star wheel. Short games of basketball, kick-baseball, and volleyball followed. Three girls dressed as cheer leaders did their different "antics" to music preceding the games. Several folk dances and tap numbers were presented. Next came the tumbling exhibition. The finale consisted of a dance around a large Maypole by girls dressed in light colored dresses. This carried out the star wheel of the opening.

The three outstanding seniors who received the sweaters this year were: Madelyn Weseman, Corrine Mudd, and Sara Masterson. Madelyn Weseman is an honor student as well as a good athlete. Sara Masterson and Corrine Mudd have been faithful followers of the sports throughout their four years at Central.

"The Cold Standard in Central"

Estimated Length, Breath and Thinness (Not to mention other characteristics) or

"WHAT THIS SECOND YEAR HOARDING ADMINISTRATION WILL DO"

By Prof. Neb Klaf, Ltd., Fob., D. K.

"About six days before the summer solstice (das esolstice), Central High School will be definitely off the cold standard," runs the prediction of Professor Klaf of the Scotch Economists' Society of America. But coming from the Professor, this is really more than a prediction; for this astounding conclusion was arrived at only after weeks of study of portentous facts, and is not a mere phantasmagoria of a somnambulistic sleeper, as some alleged authorities would have us believe, among whom are Malchizidek, authority on the philogenetic recapitulation of mosquitoes, and his contemptorary, Rex M. P., authority on—well, just an authority. But before we give you the content of the Professor's message, we should like to acquaint you with some of the components of the constituent ingredients.

The term "cold standard" has as many variations in meaning as has the term, 2 to 14 years. But for all practical purposes we shall take it to mean the height of the shoulder of any potential senior. That is the height of something or other (in most cases) which brings us to our next definition, seigniorage. According to Whois Thisman Babson, a red haired static (static-titian), seigniorage is that age, over and above brassage, during which one becomes a senior to some junior. A bull is one who is constantly trying to horn in on someone's deal, and whom some people bullieve, but whom others can't bear. We're not quite sure what a "parity of value" is, but we think that it is one at which a good time was had by all.

Having tzetelled (the z is not silent as in Zuider Zee zat sat down by Miss Muffet (it sat Bee Zuider), who was the worst outfielder on "Curdy" Whey's baseball team). Well, having settled the definitions, let us proceed to show that Central was on the cold standard, and how definitely it will be on it when June becomes 16—Ah! Sweet 16!, and never been . . . . . seventeen.

It is axiomatic that the volume of any discussion is in inverse ratio to the knowledge of the subject—this can easily be established from the principle of physics that V:V'::P':P—hence, note the length of this discussion.

All through the winter it can be shown that Central existed on the cold standard. This can be borne out in several directions. First of all, our 'Cellar of the Exchecker (Our fireman to you) has become muchly disshoveled, trying to keep the school off the cold standard, and on the "full dinner pail" standard ('eat standard to youse) as a result of that recent American "Buy Tuminous" campaign. But being unable to overcome the forces at work in Gresham's Malthusian theory of quantity, he allowed the supply to increase in trigonometric ratio (which was a good sine), and was thus forced to use a man demand defense.

Although I have conclusively proved that Central is now on the cold standard, my next task is to show that it will be off it, June 16.

Now I have proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that when these 200 odd seniors graduate, Central will be off the standard relative to the Esquimaux. So what? Nu?

With Central off the cold standard, economic laws will begin to operate. Prices will rise, products will be purchased with cheap money, and hence the school will be able to acquire very cheap seniors (cold-shouldered) for next year. This is no advantage. The school receives no advantage.

That is probably the reason for having supervised study, so that those cheap, dumb, insipid, would-be seniors, would be worthy of being in the same calling as their brethern in 1933.

Weekly Diary!!

Sept. 7—School begins with the customary rush. Are we glad? Well! After the long summer it seemed pretty good to see all our old friends and to slip back into the old routine. School is growing! 240 freshmen start at noon today. Boosters! Boosters! Boosters! Everywhere Boosters showing freshmen around and teaching them the spirit of the old Alma Mater. Spotlighters are more energetic than ever. Ben as leader will have his hands full. Ernie, that vivacious person, already started work on Central's famous year book. Wonder what will happen when rush week is over! Well! We'll see.

Sept. 16—First Spotlight makes its appearance to speak for itself in the mock campaign substituted for regular subscription drive. Two parties are representing teams and are they vieing for the honors? Well! We all know those Spotlighters. Already a day of freedom! Schools close in tribute to Lincoln. Nice chance to dash the cobwebs out of one's brain. Paul Kigar and Joe Tucker carry on in true Central fashion to win great honor by presenting invitational speeches at programs given at unveiling of Lincoln Memorial at Lincoln Life Building. We're getting into stride. Wonder if we'll keep it up? Of course! "Central can if Central will!" Due apologies to Larry Levy.

Sept. 23—Senior election. Bob Barnes will pilot the haughty group through the murky and treacherous waters of their last year. Kate Yaple is secretary-treasurer for the fourth time. First efforts of dramatic students are justly rewarded. Attendance at two one-act plays is 100%. Student Players are promising great season. Central is still increasing! Enrollment totals 1481. The old saying, "The more the merrier" doesn't seem to be working. Students in smaller rooms are sitting two in a seat. Oh well!

Sept. 30—Spotlighters again! Now it's a limerick contest. Bars of candy are attractive prizes. Classes elect council members. Thirty-nine pupils will provide entertainment for activities periods. Our freshies are becoming part of us at last. They've lost their sickly green hue and have just had their first meeting in the auditorium. Wonder how our sedate seniors feel when they think of their first Freshman meeting?

Oct. 7—Charles Lofgren, a member of Byrd's Expedition to the South Pole, entertains Centralites with interesting discussion of his travels and experiences. Boosters again! This time they are preparing for the annual Tiger Mixer. Are we anxious to learn their plans? We're more anxious for the dance itself.

Weekly Diary!!

Oct. 11—Much noise and confusion in the Spotlight office and why should there be! Central wins again. Spotlight and Caldron win first and second place respectively in State Journalistic contest. Hot dog!

Oct. 14—Worry! Worry! Worry! No news this week except that the Spotlight was eight pages long. Fancy that. Were we proud? But then, we can usually count on "Old Faithful". No, not the geyser, the Spotlight.

Oct. 16—More confusion! There is no peace around here. Now the Caldronites (isn't that a sweet term) have started their campaign. Thirty-two seniors contend in verbal battles to get the greatest number of subscriptions. Let's hope their arguments don't become fistic.

Oct. 18—Much news in way of elections! Sophs (the ones who were "Just Freshmen" last year) choose Herman Deck for guide; Juniors demand Leland Maxwell by large majority. Quill and Scroll add three new members: Betty Edlavitch, Jean Beugnot, and Pauline Springer.

Oct. 19—Senior week! Present "Skidding" with Edilou Bailhe and Joe Tucker carrying major leads. Quite a success! Another Central night at the Paramount. Some of our people made us wish we weren't such a complete unit on this occasion. But then, they have to have their fun. Oh well! Edlavitch, Stumpf, and Williams have gone to Press Convention at Franklin. Wonder if they'll come back any wiser. Ha!- - - -

Oct. 28—P.T.A. puts on Back-to-School night. Our wise parents become a little confused and find out what we have to do every day. It's really quite good for them —they respect us more. Another assembly program; J. Franklin Coveny, well known artist to entertain. Choose James W. Fifield, Jr. as Commencement speaker.

Nov. 4—Not much news except the football game between Central and South Side at the Northern Field. Who's to win? As usual we're very excited over this annual game.

Dec. 2—Athletics come to the foreground—Swift, Sitko, Trott, and Jensen make all-city football squad. Again we are proud. Sophs sponser big tea dance. Spotlight is growing smaller. Only two pages this week. Did someone say something about a depression?

Dec. 9—In keeping with the times Student Players present two annual Christmas plays. Sell Red Cross Seals in hall. We're beginning to get the feel of Christmas.

Something Entirely New In Portrait Photography

AFTER many years' experience in the photographic profession, Mr. Schanz has successfully completed and perfected a lighting arrangement, that provides the elimination of dark lines, so often objected to, yet enables him to retain an admirable likeness of the subject. ¶ He can, also, recommend this system for large groups to any capacity, with perfect results, as verified by those taken for the Central High School, this year, during the experimental stage.
